

Feminine Aspects of the Five Dhyani Buddhas

Meru University Course #2020-07

Syllabus

This class will explore the feminine nature of the Five Dhyani Buddhas, or Five Buddha Families, focusing on the particular enlightened wisdom-quality each one embodies as well as the crystal ray they emanate. To understand these five characteristic wisdoms we have the opportunity to observe these through the details of our own everyday life, within ourselves and within others. Each wisdom manifests as a distinct psychological type, or fundamental style, that we can choose to discern and engage with in our particular makeup. This makes it easier for us to recognize and appreciate the subtleties of these wisdom energies in their enlightened state.

Introduction: What Tibetan Vajrayana or Tantric Buddhism teaches about these five types or styles of being in the world.

The names and characteristics of the twin flames of the Five Dhyani Buddhas will be shared.

Part 1 The Vajra Family

The twin flame of Akshobhya Buddha, who holds with him the essence of the Second Crystal Ray.

Part 2 The Ratna Family

The twin flame of Ratnasambhava Buddha, who manifests with him the essence of the Third Crystal Ray.

Part 3 The Padma Family

The twin flame of Amitabha Buddha, who holds with him the qualities of the Fourth Crystal Ray.

Part 4 The Karma Family

The twin flame of Amoghasiddhi Buddha, who emanates and embodies with him the qualities of the Fifth Crystal Ray.

Part 5 The Buddha Family

The twin flame of Vairochana Buddha, who together with him radiates the qualities of the First Crystal Ray.

Sharing and conclusion.